

EMBASSY PICKETS PLAN TEST CASE

They Plan Attack on Treasury to Make Britain Pay the United States.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The three women arrested for picketing the British Embassy still refuse to give bail and will make tests in court of their cases.

They are planning to picket the Treasury Department with a demand that the United States collect the interest due on the loans to Great Britain, which the women contend is being used to maintain British troops in Ireland.

Telegraphic advices were received at headquarters stating that $36,000 already has been deposited, and many telegrams were received from individuals offering financial support to the women.

Congress is impatient, says Lord Belthorne.

LONDON, April 8.—Speaking on the Irish question at Alton, Lord Belthorne said:

"I regard it as gross impertinence when the American Congress passes resolutions interfering with our domestic affairs, and the sooner that Americans realize we resent their interference just as much as they would resent our interference with their affairs, the better it will be for mutual understanding."

Charged With Clothing Theft.

Joseph Marinelli, No. 69 Bayard Street, was taken to the Fifth Avenue Court in Brooklyn to-day for arraignment on a charge of burglary. It is alleged that Marinelli and others got $1,142 worth of men's clothes on March 11 from the shop of Samuel Bettel, No. 136 Court Street, Brooklyn. The police say some of the clothes stolen from Bettel were found in Marinelli's room.

Justice Callaghan Greets New Daughter.

Miss Marjorie Callaghan arrived last night at No. 134 Fourth Street, Brooklyn, and the happiest man in that borough to-day is Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan, her father. Marjorie is named for her mother, and they are both getting along nicely. Justice and Mrs. Callaghan have two boys, twelve and fourteen years old.
